NOOSA PROPERTY MARKET REPORT

Year 2023 in Review

NOOSA HINTERLAND

Year 2023 in Review

The prestige property market in Noosa witnessed steady growth throughout 2023. The demand for luxury properties remained high, driven by both domestic and international buyers seeking exclusive and high-end residences, but that was not the story across the total market with some segments suffering slowing volume and a longer time on market before securing a sale.

Capitulating consumer confidence, rising cost of living pressure and constant bombardment by the mainstream media on interest rate hikes and mortgage pressure set the tone for the market in 2023.

Adrian Reed

Buyers and sellers with unmet needs that were focused on their property goals moved through the process smoothly while aspirational pricing, poorly prepared property or lacklustre campaigns stalled, subsequently the overall volume across all suburbs in the Noosa LGA declined.

This is the same story across numerous key suburbs across the country, like Bellevue Hill, Bronte, Paddington, Brighton, and Middle Park with record low volume, yet median house price growth.

National media has been aligned in its messaging that the Australian property market is defying the odds, and that median house price is on the rise, that's exactly what we have seen in our local markets. The key driver for the growth in value has been driven by a rush to quality.

A-grade property in excellent locations with genuine scarcity; both renovated and new homes have driven up the median price.

Adrian Reed

Buyers with more capacity, who are affected less by consumer confidence and the reliance on debt to buy have reigned supreme.

So, as we kick off 2024, we can see the green shoots of volume growth, with local buyers as well as the migration of tree-changers and sea-changers who are back in the market seeking their next property.

Noosa's favourable climate, stunning natural landscapes, and lifestyle amenities will continue to attract affluent individuals, investors and residents seeking an unparalleled lifestyle.

Anna Wilshire

Noosa Hinterland

As we enter the new year and reflect on the past year, it's important to consider the changing behaviors of buyers. Recent data indicates that buyers are increasingly drawn to larger homes with more amenities, particularly those that are newly constructed or freshly renovated. This trend is not only seen across the local market but is particularly prominent in the Noosa Hinterland, where building costs have risen and the time required for renovations has increased in the post-COVID building environment.

Throughout 2023, we have consistently experienced a limited supply of properties available for purchase, as sellers have held firm on their asking prices. This standoff has resulted in longer days on the market, with Doonan averaging 89 days and Tinbeerwah averaging 81 days.

In terms of median sale prices, Doonan has stabilized after a marginal decline in the previous 12 months, closing the year at $1,800,000, flat compared to the previous year. On the other hand, Tinbeerwah has seen a decline of 19.2% over the same period, with a median sale price of $1,575,000. It's worth noting that the accuracy of Tinbeerwah's median sales price has been impacted by the very low sales volume, with only 21 sales recorded.

With many economic commentators predicting another hold on interest rates now that inflation is tracking towards the RBA target, buyers are entering 2024 with a sense of urgency and purpose. Increased levels of engagement with campaigns and heightened confidence are creating a stronger marketplace for both buyers and sellers.

We have also observed a notable increase in local transactions, including downsizers, upsizers, and those seeking a change to the hinterland. It will be interesting to see if the Southern migration reemerges as a major driver for our spectacular hinterland.

“

Although there has been a shift in the market, buyers remain well-informed and controlled in their approach.

Mark Hodgkinson

Well-presented properties in prime locations continue to transact successfully. Given the decline in sales volume and reduced buyer urgency, both sellers and buyers are seeking the assistance of experienced professionals to guide them through their property journey.
